The big increase in the census of the Tembs is due, so the District-Attorney and his staff claim, to the action of the March Grand Jury "in setting aside their routine work to investigate vice." By their action, so District-Attorney Gardiner claims, the courts became

In the boys' wing of the Tombs the overcrowding is patent. There are only twenty-four cells in this prison. To-day's census shows that there are the courts.

Owing to the accumulation of routine Gardiner claims, the courts became clogged and the Tombs filled. But this is only an excuse.

The real reason for the present state of affairs, so the lawyers say, is the became business the present Grand Jury, it was announced this morning in the District-Attorney's office, would not be able to take up any other work. This means that the investigation into vice will not be taken up by the present Grand Jury.

Barnet Bernstein, the comedian of Hebrew theatrical company, now playing at the Windsor Theatre, did not have a laughing part when he appeared in Essex, Market Court to-day. The comedian's head was core and he accused Starter's Box, Park Row Hyman Shall, of 316 Atlantic avenue, of stealing up behind him and hitting him. This occurred yesterday, Shall running into the saloon of Henry Weissberg, at 342 Broome street, after the alleged assault. Bernstein was inclined to believe "Joe" Hart's "Old Homestead," which that the saloon-keeper instigated the at-

"The Old Homestead" is the starter's box that has been there for nearly eighteen years, and was occupied for a long time by Joseph Hart, brother of Henry Hart, who built up the Third avenue system, only to lose it.

There is a spur in the track loop at Broadway, and when car No. 71 backed in on the spur it had too much head in on the spur it had too much head way. It knocked "The Old Homestead" over with a loud crash, ripped off the roof and smashed in the sides.

It is one of the last reminders of the Hart family to give way to the new order of things. weasserg denied that he was con-cerned in the matter, but added that his wife, who is an actress and plays in the same company with the comedian, was showered with vegetables every time she appeared on the stage. He seconed to think Bernstein to blame. Denials all around followed and the case was dismissed.

farewell for the season. At Carnegie Hall yesterday afternoon it was the turn of De Pachmann, the Bussian planist, who gave a recital devoted exclusively to Chopin. All the mannersms and audacious tricks for which this really gifted player is notorious were displayed to the full. Occasionally he forgot himself and interpreted the composer with bentting sympathy and dignity. Always, however, the caressing touch and senminus tone of which he is the master were in evidence. As for the audience, which was a large one, it showed no discrimination in the appliance that was showed upon him,

SOUBRETTE'S BLOOD SAVED MAN'S LIFE.

How Elaine Selover Is Said to Have Been Good Angel to a Dying Wealthy Philadelphian.

Elaine Selover is a girl of petite figure with laughing eyes and a shock of fair hair. She is a member of the "Mam'-selle 'Awkins" company. She will arrive in Philadelphia on Monday and be warmly greeted by two happy and grateful parents, who cannot do too

England. By giving her own life-blood and undergoing an operation that might have killed her she brought him back from the shadow of death.

It was about a year ago that the young man, who is the son of a well-known merchant, went to Europe on vaccation with a friend. They met Miss Selover in London, where she had gone with "The Belle of New York." On the day the young man and his friend were to sail for home he was taken suddenly ill with hemorrhages and had to be left behind.

suddenly ill with hemorrhages and had to be left behind.

Terribly sick a little later the young man all alone in his lodgings could think of no one to whom to appeal but the chorus girl. She came and found film almost unconscious from loss of blood. She called a doctor hastily. He declared that there was only one man in England could save him, and he was in Brighton and it would cost $50) to get him.

Miss Selover was dumfounded, for she had no such sum, but she appealed to Gustave Kerker, the musical director of her company, and he agreed to be responsible for the amount until the boy's parents could be cabled. The Brighton man was sent for. While they walted for him the boy's life hung on a thread.

Mrs. Berrick's Trousseau Burned, She Calls a Halt.

Mrs. Evelyn Berrick, of 106 West One Hundred and Fifteenth street, tearfully announced this morning the postpone of her wedding and subsequent trip to Paris.

The bridegroom is ready and anxious but Mrs. Barrick is too distressed to think of matrimony just now. Fire visited her apartments last nigh and totally destroyed her trousseau. Two ended in accumulating it. She and her daughter, Miss Gertrude, lost other gar ments, valued at $1,000.

Their entire wardrobe is on their back

Mrs. Berrick and her daughter occupy te third floor of a handsome stone front partment-house at 106 West One Hun red and Fifteenth street. Before going out for a trolley ride last night they lighted a small kerosene lamp to heat neir curling tongs. Neither remembers having extinguished the lamp. Some time after 10 o'clock Mr. Rose, aroused by the odor of smoke, discovered Mrs. Berrick's apartments in flames. He aroused other occupants of the house. Mrs. J. W. Freund, living over the burning apartment, had a narrow escape. She grabbed her clothes and fled, completing her toilet in the lower hall. An alarm brought Engine Company No. 45 and they subdued the flames in fifteen minutes.

Mrs. Berrick and her daughter returned as the firemen were leaving. When she saw the ruin wrought by the fire she fainted and then had hysteries.

This morning she was picking over the charred remains of her trousseau. Expensive gowns were blackened by the fire and what escaped the flames was ruined by water.

"No, indeed, the marriage will not go on," she said to an Evening World reporter. "Why. I've nothing to wear but the clothes on my back. We were to have been married in a few weeks, No! I will not tell you his pame. The wedding has to be postponed." ow escape. She grabbed her clothes
